Alan Peat sentences	BOYS Sentences – A B.O.Y.S sentence is a two-part sentence. Emotion, comma – Emotion first followed by the actions that are caused by the emotion. Putting the word first gives more weight to the emotion. When teaching, provide an A-Z list of emotions the children could use. The more, the more. – This sentence type is particularly useful when developing a character trait in a story. The first more should be followed by an emotive word and the second more should be followed by a related action. Ad, same ad – Start with a simple sentence containing one adjective. End this with a comma and repeat the adjective with an explanation for why that adjective has been used. List sentences – A list sentence must have 3 or 4 adjectives before the noun.

Alan Peat sentences	Noun, which/who/where - Use commas to embed a clause within a sentence, add information that links with the sentence topic and start the clause with which, who or where. Verb, person - A sentence starts with a verb to give it more importance. The verb is always followed by a comma and then a name or a personal pronoun (he, she, they, it) followed by the rest of the sentence. __ing, __ed - The sentence must begin with a subordinate clause which begins with a verb ending in ‘ing’, followed by the location of the action. Focus on the use of prepositions in the first part of the sentence (subordinate clause) to explain where the action is happening.
